

QUEBEC CHURCH LIES IN RUINS

Ancient Notre Dame, One of Finest in All Canada

DEFECTIVE WIRING GIVEN AS CAUSE

The Church Was First Used in 1650: Many Times Renewed

Quebec, Dec. 22.—Fire, thought to have started from a short circuit in the electrical wiring, destroyed Notre Dame church here early to-day. It was considered one of the finest and most artistic church buildings in Canada and the interior had been renewed recently at a cost of $300,000. The loss was said to be covered by insurance.

The church, known as the French Basilica, was located on the opposite side of the square from the former site of the Jesuits college and was first established in 1647. Mass was said on Christmas day in 1650.

But it was not until 1869 that the church was consecrated by the first bishop of Quebec, Monseigneur De Laval. It underwent a restoration in 1745 and since that date had been altered and renewed a number of times.

SIX BUILDINGS AFIRE

And Many People Driven Out in New York Fire.

New York, Dec. 22.—Several persons were reported injured and more than a score driven into the street in scanty night attire early to-day when five dwellings and a four-story tenement in Brooklyn caught fire. Four alarms drew apparatus from as many stations and four ambulances with eight surgeons were sent to the scene.

Several firemen were burned and scores of onlookers were seen scurrying for shelter when an electrical feed wire, serving a trolley line fell to the ground. The blaze was said to have started in a business building adjoining one of the dwellings.

YALE STUDENT KILLED.

When Automobile Skidded Into Tree Near Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Dec. 22.—Miller Resor of Boston, a student at Yale, was killed early to-day in an automobile accident in Fairmount park. With two classmates, Edward Tresell and Harry Saures, both of Philadelphia, Resor was returning to this city from the Philadelphia Country club, when their motor car skidded on the East river drive, and crashed into a tree. Resor's skull was fractured and he died before reaching the hospital.

He came to Philadelphia to spend the Christmas holidays with Tresell and Saures, neither of whom was badly hurt. He was 20 years old.

Somerville has overruled motions for new trials for Pete Radakovich and Teddie Arunski, convicted of conspiracy in connection with the Cliftonville mine rioting July 17, when Sheriff H. H. Duval and six others were killed. He sentenced the defendants to serve ten years each in the state penitentiary at Moundsville. The sentence was the maximum under the conspiracy law.

NORTH DAKOTA LEGISLATURE FORCES ECONOMY PLAN

State Taxes Have Been Increased Over Sixteen Million in Seven Years.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 22.—Financial and public welfare problems, and others having to do with political considerations, will face the North Dakota legislature when it convenes here on Jan. 3. For the first time in three regular sessions and two special sessions, it will not be controlled by the Non-partisan league, a small majority in both House and Senate being members of the Independent Voters' association, a coalition of progressive Republican and Democrats.

Questions of economy will be the first to come before the legislative session. State taxes have increased $16,000,000 since 1915, largely through increases in road and school taxation.

Reduction in the number of banks in the state also will be considered. North Dakota has an average of a bank and a half per thousand population. The present law discourages consolidation of banks and an act that will permit their turn over without closing or liquidation, is expected to be passed.

Legislation also is expected looking toward the closing of industrial experiments of the league that have proved unprofitable. The league closed the experimental creamery at Werner and stopped erection of buildings in its home building experiment. Most of these industrial experiments were adopted as initiated measures. Increase in the power of the farm loan department and provision for the operation of the state owned mill at Grand Forks, are among other expected legislative considerations. One unit of the mill is running, the complete operation of which the independent administration pledged "an honest effort to determine if it is a successful experiment."

Consideration of a complete list of laws regarding children and the revamping of the health laws of the state to meet present conditions are the chief welfare measures to be acted upon. A children's code commission has been at work for two years and with the help of the children's bureau at Washington, a system of laws has been compiled. The health laws presented will be largely an attempt to consolidate and systematize the present health agencies, with some attempts made at the enlargement of the field.

BANTAMWEIGHT BOUT.

Jos Lynch and Midget Smith to Meet in New York.

New York, Dec. 22.—Joe Lynch and Midget Smith will battle for the world's bantamweight championship in a 15 round bout at Madison Square Garden to-night. Lynch, the present champion, is one of the new ring stars who ever regained a lost title. After losing the crown to Peter Herman in July 1921, Lynch recovered it last summer, by defeating Johnny Buff, Herman's conqueror.

Doubt has been expressed as to whether Smith would be able to make 118 pounds, the bantamweight limit, but he tipped the scales at exactly that figure late yesterday. The articles call for both men to weigh in 2 o'clock this afternoon.

This will be the third meeting of the two, Lynch gaining the decision in one engagement and the other ending in a draw.

FRANK FRISCH DECLINES.

To Be Considered for Presidency of Ball Players' Union.

New York, Dec. 22.—Frank Frisch, star infielder of the Giants, who has been nominated along with George Burns of the Cincinnati Reds and Jack Pomeroy of the St. Louis Cardinals, for presidency of the new baseball players union, will decline to accept the office if he is elected in the mail balloting now going on.

The announcement was made yesterday by James J. Tierney, secretary of the Giants, who said Frisch had explained that he feared the use of his name in connection with the new union might lead to the impression that he was dissatisfied with the New York club.

SHOT AT MEN WADING IN LAKE

Louisiana State Guardsmen Discovered Party Early To-day

WHERE SEARCHERS LOOK FOR BODIES

Of Two Men Who Mysteriously Disappeared Last Summer

Mer Rouge, La., Dec. 22.—State guardsmen early to-day shot at men they saw wading about in Cooper lake, near here, which was searched yesterday for the bodies of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards, who were believed to have been victims of masked and white robed men who abducted them and three companions last August. Two of the detail of six soldiers at the lake hurried to Mer Rouge and department of justice agents and the entire company of militiamen stationed here went to the lake in automobiles.

Further search of La Fourche lake, partly searched Wednesday, was the effort outlined to-day for the guardsmen and a diver. The plan of search includes exploration of every lake in Morehouse parish.

The investigation which resulted in a decision by the state authorities to search the lakes has been under way nearly four months, it was said to-day. Governor Parker and Attorney General Cooze are reported to have begun their inquiry immediately after the kidnapping, but have declined to divulge its results.

The investigators are said to have obtained evidence that on the night of the kidnapping all telephone wires between Mer Rouge and Bastrop were cut. The identity of the man who ordered the cutting of the wires, it was stated, is known to the investigators.

A number of civilians who accompanied the troops to Cooper lake reported that no one had been found near the points where the guards reported having seen a number of men wading about. The militia company was ordered to camp at the lake.

EAGLE FOUGHT HARD.

And Was Only Dispatched When Clubbed On Head.

Salisbury, Md., Dec. 22.—That the American eagle would fight to its death rather than suffer the humiliation of defeat was borne out to-day when Charles A. Taylor of Quantico told of his battle with an eagle which assumed the offensive until it was killed. The bird, which was of the bald-headed species, measured six feet, seven inches between the tips of its wings, and will be mounted for exhibition.

Taylor, who was driving along a country road, was attracted by a noise in a clump of bushes. Upon investigation, he discovered the eagle endeavoring to rise in the air with the head of a full grown hog. Before Taylor could realize what was happening, the bird started an onslaught against him. In the struggle, the eagle was knocked to the ground several times, each time recovering and resuming the attack. Only after receiving a blow upon the head from a club, rendering it unconscious did the eagle give up the fight.

The Demand for Poetry.

Foreigners, not always with complimentary intent, used to say that Americans were better at doing than thinking and that this continent's particular contribution to civilization was large-scale production and great engineering feats such as the Old World never attempted. Recently some outside observers have begun to notice what must have become very obvious to our native critics, that there has recently been an extraordinary demand for poetry in this country. There are ten or a dozen magazines devoted exclusively to poetry; the most widely circulated daily newspapers and weeklies all print poems, many of them of a high order; there are many poetic societies springing up all over the country, and at least one large university formally invited a poet, as a poet, to take his place on its faculty and do what he could to stimulate an interest in poetry among the students.

These newspapers and magazines of large circulation would not continue to print poetry unless the managers and editors who direct them were convinced that it was of interest to their readers. Poetry is not yet a best seller, but it is a good seller. Librarians report that poetry, both classics and contemporary verse, is much in demand, and not merely among teachers and professional students. This tendency does not mean that the United States is losing its practical capacity and great engineering skill and losing itself in poetic dreams and visions. It does signify that North America, which in this instance may include Canada, where precisely the same tendencies may be noted, is more and more advancing toward a literary independence and seeking to express in its own language its reaction to its environment. Besides, is not the dominant note of America's great engineering works imagination rather than mere technical skill, just as imagination and not the knack of versifying is the raison d'être of poetry?—Baltimore American.

BRITISH PRESS SKEPTICAL.

About Proposal for American Commission to Visit Germany.

London, Dec. 22.—Considerable caution, amounting sometimes to frank skepticism, is manifested by this morning's newspapers in the discussion of the proposal for an American commission to visit Germany. Some of the papers bring forward semi-official denials that Great Britain has received, much less, accepted, the proposal, and warn against putting faith in these "American canards."

In quarters where it is admitted as probable that Germany initiated such a proposal the idea is received with a strong suspicion of Teutonic motive. "It would be most unwise," writes the financial editor of the Post, "to allow these constant rumors of American intervention to divert attention from the one undoubted fact of the situation, namely that the next cash installment of the reparations is due Jan. 15 and that it behooves the allies to come to a definite conclusion in the meantime regarding the course to be adopted unless Germany previously presents satisfactory proposals."

CLAIMS P. O. DEFICIT.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes Makes Public "Submerged" Balance Sheet.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—General Charles G. Dawes, former director of the national budget, to-day made public what he termed the "submerged" balance sheet of the postoffice department. It showed a deficit of $16,195,000 for the first three months of this year.

The Chicago Tribune printed what it said was a reproduction of the balance sheet, accompanied by a letter from J. C. Knapp, vice-president of the Otis Elevator company, who assisted in making out the report.

Liabilities of the postoffice department, according to the reproduced report were $140,846,500 for the first three months of the year and assets were $124,648,500.

"I have endeavored to produce a true picture of the postoffice operations by taking the regular postoffice accounts alone (which alone do not give the true picture), and adding to them what they lack," Mr. Knapp's reproduced letter reads.

"I believe that each government department can be successfully placed on this basis. When accomplished, a consolidation of them will produce a balance sheet and operating statement of the United States," it concluded.

"Bureaucrats" were charged with attempting to throttle the government in a statement by General Dawes regarding the postoffice balance sheet.

Although the balance sheet had been approved by Will Hays, former postmaster general, General Dawes said he had heard nothing of the postoffice balance sheet and declared the government's accounting to-day to be "a disgraceful and archaic system."

He said the disappearance of the balance sheet could not be dismissed as "a great fuss about nothing."

How About Their Own Little Irls?

We read in the news dispatches that the head of a firm of brokers in Chicago, whose recent financial crash made a moment's sensation in the street, went Christmas shopping and bought just one present—a $200 dollhouse for his little daughter, which he said he had to buy because, while the rest of the world knew he was broke, it couldn't be explained to little Betty. No doubt little Betty will be happy with her dollhouse. Who paid for it?—Boston Globe.

Whoever did, if they are mothers and fathers, won't object to $200 lost from their assets if that $200 gratifies a little girl's request to Santa Claus.—Worcester Telegram.
